Notes to Completion of Form RR1

¹The limitation on use of reliefs will apply to an individual if the individual's Adjusted Income for the year 2007 is equal to or greater than the Threshold Amount (normally €250,000) and the aggregate of the Specified Reliefs used by the individual for that year is also equal to or greater than the Threshold Amount. However, the limitation will not apply where the Specified Reliefs used do not exceed one-half of the individual's Adjusted Income. For these purposes, in the case of married couples who are assessed jointly, each individual's taxable income is to be determined separately in accordance with Section 485FA TCA 1997.

²In the case of a married couple:

- assessed as single persons, where the limitation applies to both spouses, each spouse should use a separate form;
- assessed under joint assessment or separate assessment, where the limitation applies to both spouses, then both spouses should use the same form. If the limitation only applies to one spouse, then the spouse subject to the limitation should complete the form but Line A1 must show the joint taxable income of both spouses and Line A2 must show the individual taxable income of each spouse.

³Adjusted Income (as defined in Section 485C TCA 1997) is the amount determined by the formula: (T + S) - R.

T is the amount of an individual's taxable income for a tax year determined on the basis that Chapter 2A Part 15 TCA 1997, other than Section 485F, does not apply to the individual for the year and, in the case of a married couple assessed under joint assessment or separate assessment, determined on the basis that the taxable income of each spouse is determined separately in accordance with the provisions of Section 485FA TCA 1997.

S is the aggregate of the Specified Reliefs used by the individual for the tax year (see Panel H).

R is the amount of an individual's ring-fenced income, if any, for a tax year (see Panel G).

⁴The amount to be included in this box is the joint taxable income of both spouses calculated on the basis that the limitation on use of reliefs does not apply to either spouse for the year 2007. In other words, it is the couple's joint taxable income determined as if the limitation on use of reliefs had never been enacted. Income from Development Land that is taxed at 20% should not be included in this amount.

⁵In the case of jointly assessed couples, the provisions of Section 485FA TCA 1997 require that the taxable income of each spouse be determined separately. Income from Development Land that is taxed at 20% should not be included in these amounts.

⁶This amount should be equal to or greater than the Threshold Amount (normally €250,000). If not, then the limitation measure will not apply. Each amount of relief subject to the limitation is to be entered at the appropriate entry at Panel H. Schedule 25B to the TCA 1997 sets out rules for determining the amount of any Specified Relief used by an individual in a tax year. These rules are supplemented by the provisions of Section 485C(2)(b) TCA 1997 which, in the case of an exemption, requires the amount of the exempt income to be determined under the normal income tax rules for computing the amount of profits, gains or income to be charged to tax.

⁷The Threshold Amount for 2007 is €250,000, where there is no ring-fenced income. Where there is ring-fenced income, use the formula in Line B2 to compute the Threshold Amount for 2007.

⁸Recalculated Taxable Income.

The limitation on the use of reliefs works by recalculating an individual's taxable income for a tax year and applying the normal tax rates and bands and tax credits to this Recalculated Taxable Income figure. An individual's Recalculated Taxable Income is the amount given by the formula T + (S - Y).

T is the amount of an individual's taxable income for a tax year determined on the basis that Chapter 2A Part 15 TCA 1997, other than Section 485F, does not apply to the individual for the year and, in the case of a married couple assessed under joint assessment or separate assessment, determined on the basis that the taxable income of each spouse is determined separately in accordance with the provisions of Section 485FA TCA 1997.

S is the aggregate of the Specified Reliefs used by the individual for the tax year (see Panel H).

Y is the greater of the Threshold Amount and one-half of the Adjusted Income (see Panel C).

⁹Schedule 25C to the TCA 1997 sets out rules for apportioning certain reliefs carried forward into 2007 as between Specified Reliefs and other reliefs where the amount carried forward ultimately derives from a mixture of Specified Reliefs and other reliefs. Slightly different rules apply depending on the type of relief in question. Broadly, the apportionment works by applying a fraction to the amount of a particular type of tax relief carried forward into 2007 where the numerator of the fraction is the total of the Specified Reliefs which were given to the individual over the previous 4 years in relation to the type of relief involved and the denominator is the total of the individual's overall use of tax reliefs over the same period in relation to that type of relief.

¹⁰The allowances in question are those carried into 2007 under Section 304(4) TCA 1997.

¹¹The losses in question are those carried into 2007 under Section 382 TCA 1997.

¹²The allowances in question are those carried into 2007 under Section 305(1) TCA 1997.

¹³The losses in question are those carried into 2007 under Section 384 TCA 1997.

¹⁴The reference to the Aggregate of Specified Reliefs Used for 2007 is, in the case of an allowance, deduction, repayment or other relief, a reference to that part of the overall amount of relief available to the individual for the year 2007 in respect of which effect has actually been given for that year and is, in the case of an exemption, the amount of exempt income arising to the individual for the year 2007 determined under the normal income tax rules for computing the amount of profits, gains or income to be charged to tax.
