

RECEIVER OF WRECK – LIST OF RECEIVERS – CDPN 49

Introduction

A Receiver of Wreck is a Revenue Official appointed by the Minister for Transport, Tourism & Sport whose duty is to deal with any wreck found in or on the shores of the sea or any tidal water or harbour.

Any ship-wreck or related material found in Irish territorial waters up to the twelve mile limit or outside Ireland and brought within Irish Territorial waters, must by law be reported to the Receiver of Wreck. All wreck material, however small or apparently insignificant it may appear, must be reported to the Receiver who will decide on what action is necessary. Examples of what may be reported include portholes, bells, plates, compasses, fixtures and fittings, bundles of wood, hatch covers, historical and archaeological material such as medieval pots, gold coins, cannon etc.

The following are not classified as wreck:

- Boats which have come off their moorings are not classified as wreck, as they have not been abandoned without hope of recovery; and
- Buoys (i.e. marker buoys, mooring buoys etc.) other than those which form part of fishing equipment.
