PART 48 MISCELLANEOUS AND SUPPLEMENTAL

Overview

This Part contains a number of provisions which —

- are incidental or supplementary to the principal provisions of this Act relating to income tax, corporation tax or capital gains tax, and
- impact on the operation or administration of the tax code relating to those taxes (for example, disclosure of information to the Ombudsman (section 1093), tax clearance (sections 1094 and 1095) and the electronic storage of tax records (section 1096B)).

1087 Charge and deduction of income tax not charged or deducted before passing of annual act

Summary

While an increase in a rate of tax applies from the beginning of a tax year, such increase cannot generally apply until it is authorised by law. This is usually on the passing of the annual Finance Bill into law. In cases where the increased rate of tax is to apply before the passing of the Finance Bill, the authorisation for same is by way of a “financial resolution” under the provisions of the Provisional Collection of Taxes Act, 1927. However, in some instances, a financial resolution may not be in place to cover payments made before the passing of the Finance Bill.

Under various provisions of the Tax Acts, tax at the standard rate must be deducted by the payer on payment of interest, dividends and other annual payments. If at the time of payment, the rate of tax (which may be nil) deducted under the law in force at the time of payment is less than the rate of tax which should have been deducted had the revised law applied at the time of payment, the difference may be recouped by way of an assessment under Case IV of Schedule D.

Details

Where in any year of assessment, the tax deducted at source on the payment of interest, dividends or other annual payments is less than the tax which would have been deducted had the payments been made after the passing of the Finance Bill, then — (1)

- the “lost tax” (that is, the difference between the tax actually deducted and the tax which would have been deducted had the revised law for that year been in force at the time of payment) may be recovered by means of a Schedule D, Case IV assessment, and
- when requested to do so by Revenue, the payer must supply —
 - the names and addresses of the persons to whom such payments have been made, and
 - the amount of those payments.

Where the tax deducted at source is less than the tax which, following the passing of legislation increasing the rate of tax, should have been deducted, the payer may either — (2)

- recoup the difference in tax from future payments, or
- seek to recover the additional tax paid direct from the recipient.

This section does not apply to distributions. (3)

1088 Restriction on deductions in computing profits

This section provides for —

- a general prohibition on deductions in calculating profits or gains for tax purposes except where a deduction is expressly authorised by the Income Tax Acts, (1)(a)
- a general prohibition on a deduction for annuities or other annual payments made for which the payer has already obtained relief (the exclusion of interest from this provision coupled with its exclusion from section 81(2)(l) ensures that business interest is allowable as a deduction in computing business profits or income), and (1)(b)
- a general prohibition on deductions in computing profits or gains from both businesses and offices and employments for a reduction in capital employed or for losses sustained (specific relief for losses sustained in a trade, profession or employment is provided for by Part 12). (2)

1089 Status of interest on certain unpaid taxes and duties

Interest payable on unpaid Stamp Duty, VAT, Relevant Contracts Tax and PAYE tax deducted by employers but not remitted is — (1)

- payable without deduction of tax, and
- not allowable in computing any income, profits or gains for tax purposes.

Interest payable on unpaid Wealth Tax and Capital Acquisitions Tax is not allowable in computing any income, profits or gains for tax purposes. (2)

1090 Income tax assessment to be conclusive of total income

Where an assessment for any year of assessment has become final and conclusive —

- that assessment is also final and conclusive for the purposes of estimating total income from all sources for the purposes of the Income Tax Acts, and
- no relief – on the grounds of diminution of income or loss – is to be allowed unless a claim had previously been made for such allowance or adjustment under the specific provisions of the Income Tax Acts relating to such relief (Part 12 contains the provisions relating to loss relief).

1091 Annexation of statements to interest warrants, etc

Summary

Every warrant, cheque or other order in respect of any payment of interest from which the paying company is entitled to deduct income tax must be accompanied by a statement showing details of the gross payment, the amount and the rate of tax and the net amount paid.

Details

In this section, “company” means a company within the meaning of the Companies Act, 1963 and a company created by letters patent or by statute. (1)

Every warrant, cheque or other order in respect of any payment of interest from which the paying company is entitled to deduct income tax must be accompanied by a statement showing — (2)

- details of the gross payment,
- the rate and amount of tax, and
- the net amount actually paid.

The section does not apply to distributions within the meaning of the Corporation Tax

Acts.

The penalty for failure to comply with this section is €200 per contravention subject to a maximum of €2,000 in respect of any one payment of interest. (3)

1092 Disclosure of certain information to rating authorities, etc

Summary

This section has as its object the provisions of a means of checking a person's title to rates relief under the Rating on Agricultural Land (Relief) Acts, 1939 to 1980. The Revenue Commissioners may give details of the occupiers of lands and the rateable valuation of such lands to a rating authority or to an officer of the Department of the Environment and Local Government.

“occupation” has the same meaning as in section 654 and a “rating authority” has the same meaning as in section 898. (3)

1093 Disclosure of information to Ombudsman

This section secures that any obligation as to secrecy or restriction on the disclosure or production of information or documents obtained by or given to the Revenue Commissioners for tax purposes is not to apply so as to preclude the disclosure by the Revenue Commissioners of information (including documents) to the Ombudsman for the purposes of the Ombudsman Act, 1980.

1093A Disclosure of certain information to Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment, etc.

This section permits Revenue to transfer, to the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment and a new office for employment rights compliance to be set up under the partnership agreement “Towards 2016”, information regarding the employers and earned incomes of individuals. Information extracted from declarations made by contractors and subcontractors under Regulation 3 of the Relevant Contracts Tax legislation may also be transferred to both the Minister and the new body. The information transferred may only be used by the Minister and the body in the exercise of their powers and functions in relation to employment rights compliance and may not be transferred to any other person (other than each other) for any other purpose. The Minister and the body transfer information in relation to employers and earnings of individuals to Revenue.

1094 Tax clearance certificates in relation to certain licences

Summary

This section sets out the circumstances in which a tax clearance certificate is to be issued by the Collector-General for the purposes of obtaining various licences. The person who is the beneficial holder of the licence must apply for the tax clearance certificate. This usually is the person to be named on the licence but, where the licence is held in the name of a nominee, the application must be made by the person on whose behalf the nominee holds the licence.

In order to qualify for the tax clearance certificate, the person applying for the certificate and certain other persons connected with that person must have complied with all the obligations provided for in the Acts, and any instruments made under the Acts, governing income tax, corporation tax, capital gains tax and VAT in relation to —

- the payment of taxes, interest and penalties, and

Details

The section construes references to an oath in the Tax Acts and the Capital Gains Tax Acts as including references to an affirmation in the case of person allowed by law to affirm instead of to swear. (1)

The word “law” is defined as including the Oaths Act, 1988. That Act and every other enactment that permits an oath to be taken or an affirmation to be made is to apply to an oath to be taken or an affirmation to be made under the Tax Acts or the Capital Gains Tax Acts. (2)

1096B Evidence of computer stored records in court proceedings, etc.

Summary

This section enables the Revenue Commissioners to scan and store electronically images of existing and future tax returns and other records (under all tax heads) and to use an authenticated copy record of them where required in court proceedings to prove facts that are stated on those records. A copy record produced for use in court proceedings must be accompanied by a signed certificate stating that the proper procedures were followed in making and storing the record concerned. If the court is not satisfied with the procedures it can rule that a copy record is inadmissible as evidence.

Details

Definitions

“copy record” is any copy of an original record or a copy of that copy made as referred (1) to in subsection (2). The copy must be accompanied by a certificate (see subsection (4)) and the original record, or copy thereof, must be in the possession of the Revenue Commissioners.

“original record” is any document, record or record of an entry in a document or record or information relating to tax made or stored by way of any storage equipment by, and in the possession of, the Revenue Commissioners.

“provable record” is an original record or a copy record and – where an original record or copy record is stored in any storage equipment – includes the production/reproduction of the record in a legible form.

“storage equipment” is any device used for storing information.

“tax” is any tax, duty, levy or charge under the care and management of the Revenue Commissioners.

Copying and storage of records

The Revenue Commissioners may make a legible copy, or store information necessary (2) for making a legible copy, of any original record or any copy record where those records are deteriorating, inconvenient to store or where the method of keeping them has become technically obsolete. The Commissioners may then destroy the original or copy records.

Copy deemed to be original

The legible copy made of the record, or the information stored, in accordance with (3) subsection (2) is deemed to be an original record for the purposes of this section.

Certification re copying of records

In any proceedings, a certificate signed by an officer of the Revenue Commissioners (4) & (5) stating that a copy record has been made in accordance with subsection (2) shall be evidence of the fact and a document purporting to be such a certificate shall be deemed to be such a certificate and to be so signed, unless the contrary is shown.

A provable record is to be admissible in evidence in any proceedings and shall also be (6) evidence of anything recorded in it unless the contrary is shown or unless the court is not satisfied with the procedures used to make it.

In any proceedings a signed certificate by an officer of the Revenue Commissioners that (7) a thorough but unsuccessful search has been made for a record of an event, is evidence that the event did not happen unless the contrary is shown or unless the court is not satisfied that it did not happen.

Delegation

Any powers conferred on the Revenue Commissioners by the section can – subject to (8) their direction and control – be exercised by an officer of the Revenue Commissioners.
