PART 7 INCOME TAX AND CORPORATION TAX EXEMPTIONS

CHAPTER 1 Income tax

Overview

Chapter 1 of Part 7 provides exemption from income tax in respect of certain income, payments, pensions, etc, and also provides exemptions from income tax and in some instances capital gains tax, in the case of certain individuals and bodies.

187 Exemption from income tax and associated marginal relief

Summary

This section provides exemption from income tax for individuals with income not exceeding €10,420, in the case of certain married persons, and €5,210, in the case of single and widowed persons. In addition, the exemption limits are increased by €575 in respect of each of the first 2 qualifying children and by €830 in respect of each subsequent qualifying child. The section also provides for marginal relief where an individual's total income exceeds the appropriate exemption limit applicable to that individual, but does not exceed a sum equal to twice that exemption limit.

Details

Exemption limits

(1)

In the case of an individual entitled to the married person's tax credit under section 461(a), the exemption limit is €10,420. In any other case (that is, a single person, a widowed person or a married person assessed as a single person), the exemption limit is €5,210. The exemption limit is known as "the specified amount".

Additional amount for children

Where an individual proves that he/she has living, at any time during the year of assessment, a qualifying child, the exemption limit is increased by €575 in respect of each of the first 2 qualifying children and by €830 in respect of each subsequent qualifying child. Any question as to whether a child is a qualifying child is determined in the same manner as it would be for the purposes of section 462 (one-parent family tax credit). The additional amount for qualifying children applies also for the purposes of the age exemption provided for in section 188. (2)

Joint entitlement to additional amount for a child

Where 2 or more individuals would be entitled to an increase in the specified amount in respect of the same child — (3)

only one increase is allowed per child,

- where the child is maintained by one individual only, that individual only is entitled to the increase,
- where the child is maintained by more than one individual, each individual is entitled to claim such part of the increase as is proportionate to the amount expended by him/her in relation to the total amount expended by all individuals

- towards the maintenance of the child, and
- in ascertaining, for the purposes of entitlement to the additional allowance, whether an individual maintains a child, any payments made by him/her towards the maintenance of the child which he/she is entitled to deduct in computing his/her total income for the purposes of the Income Tax Acts is deemed not to be a payment towards the maintenance of the child.

Exemption from tax

Where an individual makes a return of his/her total income on the appropriate form and proves that his/her total income for a year of assessment does not exceed the appropriate exemption limit for that year, that individual is exempt from income tax. (4)(a)

Marginal relief

Where an individual makes a return of his/her total income on the appropriate form and proves that his/her total income for a year of assessment does not exceed a sum equal to twice the exemption limit applicable to that individual for that year, the amount of tax payable by that individual is limited to 40 per cent of the amount by which the individual's total income exceeds the exemption limit applicable to that individual. (4)(b)

Cessation of section

This section ceases to have effect on or after 1 January 2008. (5)

188 Age exemption and associated marginal relief

Summary

This section provides for increased exemption limits for individuals aged 65 or over. For certain married individuals/civil partners, where either spouse/civil partner is aged 65 or over at any time during the tax year, the exemption limit is €36,000. In the case of single persons, widowed persons, married persons or civil partners assessed as single persons who at any time during the tax year are aged 65 or over, the exemption limit is €18,000. In addition, these exemption limits are increased by €575 in respect of each of the first 2 qualifying children and by €830 in respect of each subsequent qualifying child. The section also provides for marginal relief where an individual's total income exceeds the exemption limit applicable to that individual, but does not exceed a sum equal to twice that exemption limit.

Any question as to whether a child is a qualifying child is determined in the same manner as it would be for the purposes of section 462B (single person child carer credit). (2A)

Joint entitlement to additional amount for a child

Where 2 or more individuals would be entitled to an increase in the specified amount in respect of the same child — (2B)

(5)

Miscellaneous

Sections 459 and 460, which provide rules relating to allowances, deductions and reliefs and to the repayment of tax, where appropriate, are applied for the purposes of any exemption from tax or repayment of tax under this section. (6)

189 Payments in respect of personal injuries

Summary

This section exempts from income tax and capital gains tax, the return arising to permanently incapacitated individuals from the investment of compensation payments awarded by the Courts, or made under an out-of-court settlement, or following assessment by the Personal Injuries Assessment Board, in respect of personal injury claims. The section applies where the return on such investment (both income and gains) is greater than 50 percent of the individual's total income and gains.

Details

Qualifying payments

(1)

This section applies to any payment made —

- to or in respect of an individual who is permanently incapacitated by reason of mental or physical infirmity from maintaining himself or herself, and
- following the institution of civil action for damages, or assessment of a claim for damages by the Personal Injuries Assessment Board, in respect of personal injury giving rise to that mental or physical infirmity.

Exemption from Tax

Relevant gains are essentially chargeable gains arising from the disposal of assets that have been acquired by or on behalf of the individual concerned using the compensation payments or funds sourced from the investment or reinvestment of those payments. Relevant income means income derived from the investment and continuous reinvestment of the compensation payments which income but for this section would be chargeable to tax under — (2)(a)

- Schedule C (interest paid out of public revenue),
- Case (III) (certain interest paid in the State without deduction of tax) of Schedule D,
- Case IV (by virtue of section 59 (income taxed at source), section 745 (offshore income gains) of Schedule D and section 747E (disposal of an interest in offshore funds)), or
- Schedule F (distributions by Irish companies).

Where for a year of assessment, the aggregate of an individual's income and gains generated from investment and continuous reinvestment of the compensation payments is more than 50% of the aggregate of the individual's total income and gains for that year, then the income so generated will be exempt from income tax and the gains so generated will be exempt from capital gains tax. However even if the exemption applies, the income and gains concerned require to be included in the individual's tax return. (2)(b)

Where it is necessary to decide how much income is relevant income or how much gains are relevant gains, apportionment on a just and reasonable basis is to apply. This may be required where compensation payments or monies derived therefrom together with other funds available to the individual concerned are used to purchase an asset. (2)(c)

189A Special trusts for permanently incapacitated individuals

Summary

This section deals with the taxation treatment of income and gains arising following the creation of trusts, the funds of which were raised by public subscription on behalf of individuals who are permanently and totally incapacitated from maintaining themselves.

The section exempts from tax certain income and gains arising to the trustees of such trusts and to the individual or individuals concerned.

Details

“incapacitated individual” is an individual who is permanently and totally incapacitated, by reason of mental or physical infirmity, from being able to maintain himself or herself.

“public subscriptions” are subscriptions raised following a public appeal, for the benefit of one or more identified incapacitated individual or individuals, where either —

- the total subscriptions do not exceed €381,000, or
- if the total subscription exceed €381,000, the amount donated by any one person does not exceed 30 per cent of the total subscriptions raised. This 30 per cent limit applies from the return filing date for the first year for which the exemption is claimed by either the trustees or the incapacitated individual or individuals.

“qualifying trust” is a trust established by deed where it is shown to the satisfaction of the inspector, that —

- the trust was established exclusively for the benefit of the incapacitated individual or individuals specified in the deed and for whose benefit the public subscriptions were raised,
- the trust requires that —
 - the trust funds be applied for the benefit of the incapacitated individual or individuals at the discretion of the trustees,
 - in the event of the death of the incapacitated individual or the last surviving member, as the case may be, the undistributed part of the trust funds may form part of the estate of the individual provided they have a surviving spouse, civil partner or child and
 - otherwise the undistributed part of the trust funds at date of death are to be applied for charitable purposes or are to be appointed in favour of the trustees of other charitable bodies,
- and
- none of the trustees are connected with the incapacitated individual or individuals.

“specified return date for the chargeable period” has the same meaning as in section 959A.

“trust funds” in relation to a qualifying trust, means funds which consist of —

- public subscriptions raised for the benefit of the incapacitated individual or individuals who are the subject of the trust, and
- all money and other property arising directly or indirectly from such public subscriptions.

Exemption from tax

Trustees of a qualifying trust are exempt from income tax in respect of income arising to them from the investment of the trust funds which would otherwise be chargeable to tax under —

- Schedule C (interest paid out of public revenue),
- Case III (certain interest paid in the State without deduction of tax) of Schedule D,
- Case IV (by virtue of section 59 (income taxed at source), section 745 (offshore income gains) and section 747E (disposal of an interest in offshore funds)) of Schedule D,
- Case V (rents) of Schedule D, or
- Schedule F (distributions by Irish companies).

Gains arising to the trustees of a qualifying trust in respect of trust funds are not liable to capital gains tax.

Relevant gains are essentially chargeable gains arising from the disposal of assets that have been acquired by or on behalf of the individual concerned using payments from the trustees or income or earlier gains derived from investment of those payments. Relevant income means income derived from the investment and continuous reinvestment of the payments made by the trustees.

Where for a year of assessment, the aggregate of an individual's income and gains generated from investment and continuous reinvestment of payments made by the trustees is more than 50% of the aggregate of the individual's total income and gains from that year, then the income so generated will be exempt from income tax and the gains so generated will be exempt from capital gains tax. However even if the exemption applies, the income and gains concerned are required to be included in the individual's tax return.

Where it is necessary to decide how much income is relevant income or how much gains are relevant gains, apportionment on a just and reasonable basis is to apply. This may be required where compensation payments or monies derived therefrom together with other funds available to the individual concerned are used to purchase an asset.

The income tax exemption provided by this section before being amended in Finance Act 2004, apply for the year 1997/98 and subsequent years of assessment and apply irrespective of when the public subscriptions were raised or when the qualifying trusts were established. Section 17 of the Finance Act 2004 amended the section so that a capital gains tax exemption is also available in respect of gains accruing in 2004 and subsequently.

190 Certain payments made by the Haemophilia HIV Trust

Income consisting of payments made by the trustees of the Haemophilia HIV Trust or "the HHT" (established by a trust deed dated 22 November, 1989 between the Minister for Health and certain named trustees) to or in respect of a beneficiary under the trust is exempt from tax.

Income to which this section applies is disregarded for all the purposes of the Income Tax Acts.

191 Taxation treatment of Hepatitis C [and HIV] compensation payments

Summary

This section exempts from tax compensation payments made by the Hepatitis C Tribunal, equivalent schemes established in an EEA Member State or similar payments awarded following the institution of civil action for damages in respect of personal injury. Such payments are treated for income tax purposes and capital gains tax purposes in all respects as if they arose out of a civil action for damages for personal injury and the provisions of section 189 dealing with personal injury awards apply accordingly.

Details

Definitions

"the Act" is the Hepatitis C Compensation Tribunal Act, 1997. (1)

"the Tribunal" is the tribunal known as the Hepatitis C Compensation Tribunal established under section 3 of that Act. By virtue of the Hepatitis C Compensation

Tribunal (Amendment) Act 2002, sections 2 and 11, and the Hepatitis C Compensation Tribunal (Amendment) Act 2002 (Commencement) Order, 2002, the Tribunal established by the Hepatitis C Compensation Tribunal Act 1997 is, with effect from 9 October 2002, to be known as the Hepatitis C and HIV Compensation Tribunal, and references in the latter Act and any other Act of the Oireachtas and any instrument made under any Act of the Oireachtas to the Hepatitis C Compensation Tribunal are to be construed as references to the Hepatitis C and HIV Compensation Tribunal.

“comparable overseas scheme” means a scheme located in an EEA Member State whose purpose is to compensate individuals infected with Hepatitis C or HIV from the use of blood products.

“eligible person” means a person entitled to receive compensation under the Hepatitis C Compensation Tribunal Act 1997 or under a comparable overseas scheme.

Application

This section applies to compensation payments made by the Tribunal, a comparable overseas scheme or following the institution of a civil action for damages for personal injury, to an eligible person. (2)

Exemption from tax

Income to which this section applies is disregarded for all the purposes of the Income Tax Acts, and any payment made by the Tribunal or comparable overseas scheme to which this section applies is treated in all respects as if it were a payment made following the institution of a civil action for damages in respect of personal injury. In particular, Tribunal awards, comparable overseas scheme awards or similar court awards are brought within section 189 (payments in respect of personal injuries). Accordingly, and subject to the other conditions of that section being satisfied, investment income and capital gains arising from the Tribunal award or comparable overseas scheme award is also exempt from tax. (3)

192 Payments in respect of thalidomide children

This section applies to any payment by the Minister for Health and Children or by the foundation known as Conterganstiftung für behinderte Menschen to or in respect of any individual handicapped due to infirmity which can be linked with the taking by the individual’s mother during pregnancy of preparations containing thalidomide. (1)

Exemption from income tax is granted in respect of such payments. Income arising from the investment and reinvestment of such payments or of income arising from such payments is also exempt from income tax to the extent that it would otherwise be chargeable to tax under — (2)

- Schedule C (interest paid out of public revenue),
- Case III (certain interest paid in the State without deduction of tax) of Schedule D,
- Case IV (by virtue of section 59 (income taxed at source), section 745 (offshore income gains) and section 747E (disposal of an interest in offshore funds)) of Schedule D,
- Case V (rents) of Schedule D, or
- Schedule F (distributions by Irish companies).

Such income is not taken into account in computing the individual’s total income. However, a return of the individual’s total income (including the exempt income) must be made.

Gains accruing on the disposal of assets acquired directly or indirectly with such (3) payments or income derived from such payments are exempt from capital gains tax.

Where it is necessary to decide how much income is exempt income or how much gains are exempt gains, apportionment on a just and reasonable basis is to apply. This may be required where the payments or monies derived therefrom together with other funds available to the individual concerned are used to purchase an asset. (4)

192A Exemption in respect of certain payments under employment law

Summary

The section exempts from income tax compensatory awards where an employee's rights and entitlements in law have been infringed or breached, for example, through discrimination, harassment, victimisation or plain non-compliance by an employer with statutory requirements. The exemption will apply to payments arising out of formal hearings before the relevant authorities for the purposes of the relevant legislation. The exemption extends to such payments made following mediation processes provided for in the law. In addition, it will, subject to conditions, also apply to payments under an "out of court" settlement which has been agreed between an employee and his or her employer in place of a formal hearing of a relevant authority.

However, payments made under law to an employee which is in respect of remuneration, changes in functions or procedures of an employment or the termination of an employment will continue to be taxable in the normal way.

Details

"Relevant authority" lists the various persons and bodies responsible for dealing with claims or disputes under relevant Acts.

Subject to the following, the section applies to payments made, on or after 4 February, 2004 to an employee (or former employee) by his or her employer (or former employer) arising out of a recommendation, decision or determination of a relevant authority under a relevant Act.

Mediation processes

Payments arising out of a mediation process provided for under a relevant Act (e.g. section 78 of the Employment Equality Act 1998) are to be treated as if they had been made following a recommendation, decision or determination under that Act of a relevant authority.

Out of Court Settlements

Without prejudice to any of the terms or conditions of a settlement, the section also applies to a payment under certain "out of court" settlements. To qualify, a settlement must comply with the following conditions:

- (i) it must be an agreement evidenced in writing between unconnected persons (within the meaning of section 10), in settlement of a claim —
 - (I) which is a bona fide claim made under the provisions of a relevant Act,
 - (II) which is evidenced in writing, and
 - (III) which had the claim not been settled by the agreement, is likely to have been the subject of a recommendation, decision or determination under that Act by a relevant authority that a payment be made to the person making the claim,
- (ii) the amount of the payment under the settlement does not exceed the maximum payment which, in accordance with a decision or determination by a relevant authority (other than the Circuit Court or the High Court) under the relevant Act, could have been made under that Act in relation to the claim, had the claim not been settled by agreement, and
- (iii)
 - (I) copies of the agreement and the statement of claim are kept and retained by the employer, by or on behalf of whom the payment was made, for a period of six years from the day on which the payment was made, and
 - (II) the employer has made copies of the agreement and the statement of claim available to an officer of the Revenue Commissioners where the officer has requested the employer to make those copies available to him or her.

On request, an employer is to make available to a Revenue officer all copies of —

- (I) such agreements as are referred to in paragraph (a) entered into by or on behalf of the employer, and
- (II) the statements of claim related to those agreements, kept and retained by the employer in accordance with subparagraph (iii) of that paragraph. The officer may examine and take extracts from or copies of any documents made available to him or her under this subsection.

Non application of section

The section does not apply to so much of a payment under a relevant Act or an agreement referred to in subsection (4) as is —

- (a) a payment, however described, in respect of remuneration including arrears of remuneration, or
- (b) a payment referred to in section 123(1) or 480(2)(a).

Employment Permits Act 2003

5(A)

Section 192A exemption does not apply to compensation payments made under a court order under Section 2B of the Employment Permits Act 2003.

195 Exemption of certain earnings of writers, composers and artists

Summary

This section exempts from income tax certain earnings of writers, composers and artists which would otherwise be chargeable to tax under Case II of Schedule D. For the year of assessment 2015 and each subsequent year of assessment, the maximum amount of income which can be exempted under this section in respect of an individual is €50,000. To qualify, the Revenue Commissioners must, in accordance with statutory guidelines, make a determination that the artistic work is original and creative, is generally recognised as having cultural or artistic merit and is within certain categories of work.

Claims for determinations are considered by the Revenue Commissioners under guidelines drawn up by the Minister for Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht and An Comhairle Ealaíon (the Arts Council) with the consent of the Minister for Finance. The relief must be claimed and for the years up to and including 2014 applies only to individuals resident in the State (and not elsewhere) or ordinarily resident and domiciled in the State (and not resident elsewhere). For 2015 and subsequent years eligibility for the relief is extended to an individual who is either resident or ordinarily resident and domiciled in one or more Member States, or in another EEA state, or in the United Kingdom and not resident elsewhere.

An appeal mechanism is available to unsuccessful claimants.

The scope of this section is affected by the limitation on certain reliefs used by certain high income individuals in Chapter 2A of Part 15 and paragraph 46 of Schedule 25B (initially inserted by section 17 of the Finance Act 2006).

Details

Definition

“work” is an original and creative work within one of the following categories — (1)

- a book or other writing,
- a play,
- a musical composition,
- a painting or other like picture,
- a sculpture.

Application

For 2015 and subsequent years eligibility for the relief applies to an individual who is either resident or ordinarily resident and domiciled in one or more Member States, or in another EEA state, and not resident elsewhere. This is extended to individuals resident or ordinarily resident and domiciled in the United Kingdom from 1 January 2021. For the (2) years up to and including 2014 the relief was only available to an individual who was resident in the State (and not resident elsewhere), or who was ordinarily resident and domiciled in the State (and was not resident elsewhere). The relief applies to an individual who is determined by the Revenue Commissioners to have written, composed or executed either solely or jointly a work or works generally recognised as having cultural or artistic merit. In reaching a determination the Revenue Commissioners may consult any person or body of persons as may provide authoritative assistance to them in establishing whether a work is a qualifying work for the purposes of this section. The Revenue Commissioners are also required to consider any evidence in relation to the matter which the individual submits.

The section applies to both an individual who is engaged generally in producing cultural or artistic works and to an individual who produces a particular cultural or artistic work. The Revenue Commissioners will only make a determination where the individual makes a claim and, in the case of a claim relating to a particular work, they will only make the determination after the publication, production or sale of that work.

Exemption from tax

Where an individual makes a claim for relief and the Revenue Commissioners determine that his/her work qualifies for relief, the individual's profits/gains arising from the publication, production or sale of the work, or works in the same category as that work, are disregarded for income tax purposes to the extent that such profits or gains would otherwise be assessable to income tax under Case II of Schedule D. (3)(a)

The amount of profits or gains for a year of assessment which an individual shall be entitled to have disregarded shall not exceed €50,000 for the year of assessment 2015 and each subsequent year of assessment and €40,000 for the years of assessment 2011 to 2014. (3)(aa)

The exemption does not apply for any year of assessment before the year of assessment in which the individual concerned makes a claim under this section. (3)(b)

Relief may be given by repayment or otherwise. (3)(c)

Information

Where a claim is made in respect of an individual's general work, the Revenue Commissioners may request that individual to furnish to them such information, books, documents or other evidence as may be of assistance to them in reaching their determination. (4)(a)

Where an individual makes a claim in respect of a particular work which is a book or other writing, a play or musical composition, the Revenue Commissioners may request that the individual furnish to them 3 copies of the work. In the case of a painting or a sculpture, the Revenue Commissioners may request the individual to provide or arrange for such facilities as are necessary for the purpose of assisting them in reaching their determination (for example, arrange a viewing of a painting or sculpture already sold to another person). (4)(b)

The Revenue Commissioners may require a claimant to make available to them within a specified period all books, accounts, etc in the claimant's possession, being such books, accounts, etc relating to the publication, production or sale of the work the income from which is the subject of the claim for exemption. (5)

Appeals

Where an individual makes a claim for relief and has fulfilled any requests made to (6) him/her for supporting documentation in respect of the claim and the Revenue Commissioners fail to make a determination within 6 months of the date on which the claim is first made, the individual may by giving notice in writing to the Appeal Commissioners, within 30 days after the end of this 6 month period, appeal to the Appeal Commissioners on certain specified grounds. These grounds are —

- that the work is generally recognised as having cultural or artistic merit, or
- that a particular work has cultural or artistic merit.

The Appeal Commissioners will hear and determine an appeal in the manner provided for in Part 40A of the TCA 1997. (7)

The Appeal Commissioners may on appeal determine that the claimant has written, composed or executed a work (or works) generally recognised as having cultural or artistic merit, or has written, composed or executed a particular work that has cultural or artistic merit. In making their determination the Appeal Commissioners may consider any evidence or consult any person or body of persons as may, in their opinion, provide authoritative assistance to them in establishing whether a work is a qualifying work for the purposes of this section. A favourable determination by the Appeal Commissioners is treated as if it had been made by the Revenue Commissioners and the exemption from tax applies accordingly. A determination of the Appeal Commissioners may be appealed on a point of law to the High Court. (8)

Apportionment

In determining the amount of income qualifying for relief under this section, the Revenue Commissioners may make any necessary apportionment of receipts and expenses. (10)

Returns

Individuals qualifying for relief are obliged to make a return of their total income (including the exempt income). (11)

Guidelines

An Comhairle Ealaíon (the Arts Council) and the Minister for Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht with the consent of the Minister for Finance, may issue guidelines for determining whether a work or works are original and creative works and whether such work has, or is generally recognised as having, cultural or artistic merit. (12)

In drawing up the guidelines, the following matters, which are not exhaustive, may be included in them —

- guidelines which consist of a list of the types or kinds of works that are not original and creative or that have not or are not generally recognised as having cultural or artistic merit (this list includes works that are published, produced or sold for a specified purpose),
- guidelines which specify criteria by reference to which questions as to whether works are original or creative and whether they have, or are generally recognised as having, cultural or artistic merit are to be determined.

The Revenue Commissioners are not to determine that a work is original and creative or has, or is generally recognised as having, cultural or artistic merit unless it complies with the published guidelines. Similarly, on appeal the Appeal Commissioners or a judge of the High Court may not determine that a work is original and creative or has, or is generally recognised as having, cultural or artistic merit unless it complies with the guidelines. (13)

Works in the same category as works which have already been granted a favourable determination do not qualify for relief if first published, produced or sold on or after 3 May, 1994, unless the work in the same category also complies with the published guidelines and would qualify to be determined by the Revenue Commissioners as an original or creative work and as having, or being generally recognised as having, cultural or artistic merit. (14)

On application the Revenue Commissioners are to supply an applicant with a free copy of the guidelines. (15)

The name of successful applicants together with the category and title of the work may be published by Revenue. (16)

196 Expenses of members of judiciary

This section deals with allowances payable by way of an annual sum to members of the judiciary (being a judge of the Supreme Court, the High Court, the Circuit Court or the District Court) in accordance with section 5 of the Courts of Justice Act, 1953 and which are, in accordance with subsection 2(c) of that section, in full settlement of the expenses which a judge is obliged to incur in the performance of his/her duties and which are not otherwise reimbursed out of public money. Such allowances are exempt from income tax and are not reckoned in computing total income for the purpose of the Income Tax Acts. Expenses covered by such an allowance are not allowable expenses in computing amounts chargeable to tax under Schedule E for a year of assessment.

Summary

This section exempts from income tax certain allowances or emoluments paid to officers of the State representing compensation for the extra cost of living outside the State while on foreign service.

196B Employees of certain agencies: foreign service allowances

Summary

This section provides for an exemption from income tax in respect of certain expense payments made to, or benefits provided for, employees of certain agencies who are posted abroad. To qualify for the exemption the payments must be certified by the Minister for Finance, after consultation with the Minister for Foreign Affairs or other appropriate Minister, as representing compensation for the additional living costs incurred in being posted abroad.

The exemption is intended for employees of those agencies who are abroad but who do not have a representational capacity on behalf of the State. The main agencies involved are Enterprise Ireland, An Bord Bia, Tourism Ireland Ltd and Industrial Development Agency Ireland.

Details

An exemption from income tax is provided for such allowances or emoluments paid to employees of the agencies listed in subsection (1) as the Minister for Finance, having consulted with the Minister for Foreign Affairs or such other Minister as is appropriate in the circumstances, certifies as representing compensation for the additional cost of having to live outside the State in order to perform his or her duties.

Definitions

Subsection (1)(a) defines “emoluments” as being emoluments to which the provisions of section 985A applies i.e. benefits-in-kind. Normal salary payments are excluded from the provision and continue to be assessable as income arising from the holding of an office. (1)(a)

Subsection (1)(b) lists the agencies to which this provision applies. They are — (1)(b)

- Enterprise Ireland,
- An Bord Bia,
- Tourism Ireland Ltd and
- Industrial Development Agency Ireland.

Subsection (2) contains the substantive provision providing for an exemption from income tax for such allowances or emoluments paid to an employee of one of the listed agencies as the Minister for Finance, having consulted with the Minister for Foreign Affairs or such other Minister as is appropriate in the circumstances, certifies as representing the additional cost of having to live outside the State in order to perform the (2) duties of the office.

The section has effect from 1 January 2007.

198 Certain interest not to be chargeable

Summary

This section exempts non-residents from tax in respect of certain interest receipts. The exemption from Irish income tax only applies where the company or person receiving the interest is a tax resident of another EU Member State, a tax resident of a country with which Ireland has a tax treaty in force or a tax resident of a country with which Ireland has signed a tax treaty which has yet to come into force. (Certain conditions apply in respect of interest payments to companies.)

Details

Interpretation

Definitions of the terms “arrangements”, “relevant territory” and “tax” are provided for the purposes of the interpretation provision contained in paragraph (b). (1)(a)

An interpretation of when a company or a person is to be regarded as a resident of a relevant territory (that is, a resident of another EU Member State, a tax treaty country or a country with which Ireland has signed a tax treaty which has yet to come into force) is provided. Essentially a person is such a resident where the tax treaty in force or a tax treaty signed but not yet to come into force between Ireland and the other territory so provides or, if there is no tax treaty and the other territory is another EU country, where the tax law of that country so provides. (1)(b)

Exemption

Interest paid to companies which are not resident in the State or to persons who are not ordinarily resident in the State — (1)(c)(i)

- by companies in the course of carrying on relevant trading operations in the IFSC (section 446) or the Shannon Airport Area (section 445), or
- by companies which are specified collective investment undertakings (section 734), is exempt from Irish income tax in the hands of the recipient of the interest.

Interest paid for business purposes by a company or a collective investment undertaking (as defined in section 246) to a company which is not tax resident in the State but which is tax resident in another EU Member State, in a country with which Ireland has a tax treaty in force or in a country with which Ireland has signed a tax treaty which has yet to come into force (“relevant territory” as defined in subsection (1)) is also exempt from income tax, where the tax regime in that relevant territory is one that imposes a tax that generally applies to interest receivable in that territory by companies from sources outside that territory, or where the interest is exempt under the terms of the double tax treaty between Ireland and the relevant territory. (1)(c)(ii)

Interest paid by a company to a person who-

(1)(c)(iii)

- is not a resident of the State and is regarded as being a resident of an EU or treaty country, or
- is a company which is not resident in the State and-
 - is controlled by a person who is resident in another EU Member State or tax treaty country and the company is not under the control of a person not so resident, or
 - the principal class of shares of which is substantially or regularly traded on a recognised stock exchange in the State, another Member State of the EU, a tax treaty country, or on such other stock exchange as may be approved of by the Minister for Finance, is exempt from income tax if the interest is-

1. Eurobond interest (i.e. interest to which section 64(2) applies),
2. interest on wholesale debt instruments as defined in section 246A, or
3. interest paid in respect of asset covered securities within the meaning of the Asset Covered Securities Act 2001.

Subsection (1)(c)(iii) was amended by section 39 of the Finance Act 2012 and applies to interest paid on or after the 31st March 2012 (i.e. the date of passing of the Finance Act 2012).

Interest paid by a special purpose securitisation company (that is a “qualifying company” within the meaning of section 110) to a person (this includes individuals as well as corporates and other entities) who is not resident in the State and is tax resident in another EU Member State, a tax treaty country or a country with which Ireland has signed a tax treaty which has yet to come into force, is exempt from income tax if that interest is paid out of the assets of the qualifying company.

(1)(c)(iv)

Discounts arising on securities issued by a relevant person (within the meaning of section 246), in the ordinary course of a trade or business carried on by that relevant person, are exempt from income tax if issued to a person (this includes individuals as well as corporates and other entities) who is not resident in the State and is tax resident in another EU Member State, a tax treaty country or a country with which Ireland has signed a tax treaty which has yet to come into force.

(1)(c)(v)

Certificates certifying that IFSC or Shannon companies are carrying on relevant trading operations expired on 31 December 2005 or, in certain cases, 31 December 2002. In the absence of a provision to the contrary, the exemption under subsection (1)(c)(i)(I) would cease to apply in respect of interest paid after the expiry date of the certificate. In the context of interest paid by such companies in respect of certain securities, this is addressed by ignoring the deletion of sections 445 and 446 and the time limit to the application of the certificate set out in those sections. Thus, interest paid by an IFSC or Shannon company to a company not resident in the State, or to a person not ordinarily resident in the State, in respect of such securities will continue to be exempt from income tax despite those sections being deleted and the certificate having expired. The securities concerned here are relevant securities within the meaning of section 246; these are securities issued by an IFSC or Shannon company in the course of carrying on relevant trading operations on terms which oblige the company to redeem the security within 15 years after the date on which the security was issued.

199 Interest on certain securities

Interest on securities issued by the Minister for Finance for the purpose of being used in payment of income tax is exempt from income tax and is ignored in computing total income for the purposes of the Income Tax Acts.

200 Certain foreign pensions

This section applies to any pension, benefit or allowance which —

- is given in respect of past services in an office or employment or payable under the law of a foreign country in which it arises which corresponds to Chapter 15, 18 or 19 of Part 2 of, or Chapter 4 or 6 of Part 3 of, the Social Welfare Consolidation Act 2005, or any subsequent Act together with which that Act may be cited, and
- if received by a person who, for the purposes of a tax in that country which corresponds to income tax in the State, is resident in the foreign country and is not resident elsewhere, would be disregarded for income tax purposes.

Any pension, benefit or allowance to which this section applies is not treated as income arising from foreign possessions and, accordingly, is not chargeable to tax under Case III of Schedule D.

Under the terms of the US Double Taxation Agreement, signed on 28 July, 1997, this exemption from income tax does not apply in respect of a US Social Security pension payable to an Irish resident individual.

200A Lump sums from a foreign pension

Summary

This new section provides rules for the treatment of lump sum payments from a foreign pension arrangement, as defined, given that lump sum payments from these schemes are not covered under existing pension lump sum rules (s.790AA TCA 1997).

This section applies to individuals who are paid a lump sum payment from an overseas pension plan on or after 1 January 2023.

As and from 1 January 2023, the lifetime tax-free limit on all lump sums from a foreign pension arrangement, as defined, which are paid to a resident individual is €200,000. This lifetime limit applies to a single lump sum or, where more than one lump sum is paid to an individual over time, to the aggregate value of those lump sums and/or lump sum or sums received under existing pension lump sum rules (s.790AA TCA 1997).

Amounts in excess of this tax-free limit (the “excess lump sum”) are subject to tax under Schedule D Case III in two stages. The portion between €200,000 and €500,000 is taxed at the standard rate of tax while any portion above is at the individual’s marginal rate of tax.

The excess lump sum amount, if any, in excess of €500,000 is chargeable to the Universal Social Charge (USC).

Details

Definitions

(1)(a)

Subsection (1) sets out the definitions and other assumptions underpinning the section.

‘administrator’, in relation to a foreign pension arrangement, means the person or persons having the management of the foreign pension arrangement.

‘domestic lump sum’ means a lump sum referred to in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of section 790AA construed in accordance with paragraph (c) of that subsection. It is a lump sum that is paid to an individual under the rules of a relevant pension arrangement as defined.

‘excess lump sum’ shall be construed in accordance with paragraph (d).

‘foreign pension arrangement’ means a contract, an agreement, a series of agreements, a trust deed or other arrangement, other than a state social security scheme, which –

- a) is established in, or entered into under the law of, a territory other than the State,
- b) is, in good faith, established for the sole purpose of providing benefits of a kind similar to those referred to in Chapter 1, 2, 2A or 2D of Part 30, and
- c) is not a relevant pension arrangement.

‘relevant pension arrangement’ has the same meaning as it has in section 790AA and means any one or more of the following—

- (i) a retirement benefits scheme, within the meaning of section 771, approved by the Revenue Commissioners for the purposes of Chapter 1 of Part 30,
- (ii) an annuity contract or a trust scheme or part of a trust scheme approved by the Revenue Commissioners under section 784,
- (iii) a PRSA contract, within the meaning of section 787A, in respect of a PRSA product, within the meaning of that section,
- (iv) a qualifying overseas pension plan within the meaning of Chapter 2B of Part 30,
- (v) a public service pension scheme within the meaning of section 1 of the Public Service Superannuation (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2004,
- (vi) a statutory scheme, within the meaning of section 770(1), other than a public service pension scheme referred to in paragraph (v),
- (vii) a PEPP contract, within the meaning of Chapter 2D of Part 30, in respect of a PEPP, within the meaning of that Chapter.

‘specified date’ means 1 January 2023.

‘standard chargeable amount’ has the same meaning as it has in section 790AA. It is determined by the formula-where SFT is the standard fund threshold for the year of assessment in which the lump sum is paid and TFA is the tax-free amount. Currently the standard chargeable amount is €300,000, that is, the difference between 25% of the standard fund threshold of €2 million (€500,000) and the tax-free amount (€200,000).

$$\frac{(\text{SFT}) - \text{TFA}}{4}$$

‘standard rate’ means the standard rate of income tax in force at the time the foreign lump sum is paid.

‘tax free amount’ is €200,000.

‘tax year’ means a year of assessment within the meaning of the Tax Acts.

Foreign lump sum

(1)(b)

References in the section to a lump sum that is paid to, obtained by, given to, or made available to an individual include references to a lump sum that is obtained by, or given or made available to, an individual. (c)

Excess lump sum

The rules for determining when an excess lump sum, if any, arises in relation to a lump sum payment ('current foreign lump sum') made on or after the specified date (i.e. 1 January 2023) and which is treated as income under subsection (2) and taxed under subsection (3), are as follows:

- Where, before the current foreign lump sum was paid, an individual has not been paid: (d)(i)

- (I) a lump sum subject to the provisions of s.790AA TCA 1997, or
- (II) another foreign lump sum on or after the specified date, the excess lump sum is the amount by which the lump sum exceeds the lump sum limit of €200,000.

For example, if a retirement lump sum of €600,000 was paid in February 2023 (being the first such lump sum paid to an individual) then the excess lump sum is €400,000, that is, €600,000 - €200,000 (the tax-free amount).

- Where, before the current lump sum was paid, an individual has been paid: (d)(ii)

- (I) a lump sum subject to the provisions of s.790AA 1997, or
- (II) another foreign lump sum on or after the specified date,

then, the excess lump is the following:

- where the amount of the earlier lump sum(s) is less than the tax-free amount, the amount by which the aggregate of the earlier lump sum(s) and the current foreign lump sum exceeds the tax-free amount - (A)

For example, a lump sum of €50,000 is paid in January 2023, which is subject to the provisions of s.790AA TCA 1997. A lump sum from a foreign pension arrangement of €180,000 is paid in January 2024. The excess lump sum is therefore -

- The aggregate of the lump sums (€50,000 + €180,000) = €230,000
- Minus the tax-free lump sum limit = (€230,000 - €200,000) = €30,000

- where the amount of the earlier lump sum(s) is equal to or greater than the tax-free amount, the amount of the current lump sum. (B)

For example, a lump sum of €200,000 is paid in January 2023, which is subject to the provisions of s.790AA TCA 1997. A lump sum from a foreign pension arrangement of €180,000 is then paid in January 2024. The excess lump sum is therefore -

- The aggregate of the lump sums (€200,000 + €180,000) = €380,000
- Minus the tax-free lump sum limit = (€380,000 - €200,000) = €180,000.

Income for the year in which it is paid and chargeable to income tax

Where a foreign lump sum is paid on or after the specified date, to an individual who is resident in the State at the time the lump sum is paid, the excess lump sum shall be regarded as income of the individual for the tax year in which that foreign lump sum is paid and shall be chargeable to income tax and the universal social charge in accordance with subsection (3).

Charging rules for the “excess lump sum” (3)

Subsection (3) provides rules for the charging of the excess lump sum to tax. This may arise in two circumstances.

1. Cases where the earlier lump sum(s) did not exceed the tax-free amount

In cases where the portion of the excess lump sum does not exceed the standard chargeable amount, then:

- so much of the excess lump sum which does not exceed the standard chargeable amount is charged to tax under Case III of Schedule D at the standard rate, and (a)(i)
- so much of the excess lump sum, if any, which exceeds the standard chargeable amount shall be- (a)(ii)
 - charged to income tax under Case III of Schedule D at the higher rate of tax for the tax year in which the lump sum is paid, and (I)
 - regarded as relevant income for the purposes of Part 18D (the universal social charge). (II)

For example, an earlier lump sum of €50,000 is paid in January 2023, which is subject to the provisions of s.790AA TCA 1997. A lump sum from a foreign pension arrangement of €180,000 is then paid in January 2024. The total lump sums paid are €230,000.

The excess lump sum is €30,000 (i.e. €230,000 less lifetime tax free limit of €200,000).

As the excess lump sum amount does not exceed the standard chargeable amount of €300,000, it is charged to tax at the standard rate for the tax year in which the lump sum is paid.

2. Cases where the earlier lump sum(s) exceeded the tax-free amount (b)

In cases where the portion of the excess lump sum is greater than the tax-free amount, then:

- so much of the excess lump sum which does not exceed the standard chargeable amount is charged to tax under Case III of Schedule D at the standard rate, and (b)(i)
- so much of the excess lump sum, if any, which exceeds the standard chargeable amount shall be- (b)(ii)
 - charged to income tax under Case III of Schedule D at the higher rate of tax for the tax year in which the lump sum is paid, and (I)
 - regarded as relevant income for the purposes of Part 18D (the universal social charge). (II)

For example, an earlier lump sum of €250,000 is paid in January 2023, which is subject to the provisions of s.790AA TCA 1997. A lump sum from a foreign pension arrangement of €300,000 is then paid in January 2024. The total lump sums paid are €550,000.

The excess lump sum is €300,000, as the earlier lump sum exceeded the tax-free amount of €200,000. The excess lump sum is charged to tax as follows:

- Step 1 (amount of current lump sum within standard chargeable amount)

Standard chargeable amount:	€300,000
Less:
Amount utilised by earlier lump sum:	€ 50,000 (€250,000 less €200,000)
	€250,000

This amount (€250,000) is charged to tax under Case III of Schedule D at the standard rate of tax.

- Step 2 (amount of current lump sum exceeding standard chargeable amount)

Excess lump sum:	€300,000
Less: amount calculated under Step 1	(€250,000)
	€ 50,000

This amount (€50,000) is charged to tax under Case III of Schedule D at the higher rate of tax and it is regarded as reckonable income for USC purposes.

Person chargeable (4)

Where a foreign lump sum is paid to an individual on or after the specified date, the person liable for income tax and universal social charge charged in accordance with subsection (3) shall be that individual.

Ring fencing provisions (5)

In relation to the portion of the lump sum that is regarded as income of an individual for a tax year and charged under Schedule D Case III, to income tax at the standard rate (the portion between the tax-free amount of €200,000 and €500,000), such income –

- (i) It does not form part of the individual’s total income,
- (ii) It is to be computed without regard to any deductions allowed in computing income for the purposes of the Tax Acts,
- (iii) No reliefs, deductions or tax credits may be set against the amount so charged or against the tax payable on that amount, and
- (iv) The income tax exemption limits and marginal relief will not apply as regards income tax so charged.

In effect the charge under Case III applies to the whole of that part of the excess lump sum that does not exceed the standard chargeable amount, and nothing may be deducted or set off to reduce the tax due. This effectively ring fences the charge to tax.

Assessment, collection and recovery of income tax and universal social charge (6)

The provisions of the Income Tax Acts apply in relation to any part of an excess lump sum that is charged to tax under Case III of Schedule D, relating to the assessment, collection and recovery of income tax and universal social charge (USC).

Details regarding the foreign pension arrangement (7)

An individual claiming relief under this section shall obtain from the administrator of the foreign pension arrangement and provide to the Revenue Commissioners in such form and manner as the Revenue Commissioners may specify –

- (a) such evidence as the Revenue Commissioners may reasonably require in relation to the foreign pension arrangement, including for the purpose of satisfying themselves that the requirements set out in paragraphs (a) to (c) of the definition of ‘foreign pension arrangement’ in subsection (1)(a) are met, and
- (b) without prejudice to the generality of paragraph (a) -
 - (i) the name and address of the administrator of the foreign pension arrangement,
 - (ii) the date on which the individual became a member of the foreign pension arrangement, and
 - (iii) the date or dates on which a foreign lump sum or foreign lump sums under the foreign pension arrangement became or become payable.

Right of Appeal (8)

A person aggrieved by an assessment made on that person under this section may appeal by notice in writing to the Appeal Commissioners, in accordance with section 949I. The appeal must be made within 30 days after the date of the notice of assessment. The appeal is heard and determined in the manner provided for in Part 40A. A person may not appeal if he or she has not filed a self-assessed return and paid the amount of appropriate tax due in accordance with their own self-assessment (where the person was required to file a return).

Beneficiary of a deceased individual (9)

The provisions of the section do not apply to –

- A death in service lump sum payable by an occupational or statutory pension scheme to the widow/widower, surviving civil partner, children, children of the civil partner, dependents or personal representatives of a deceased individual.

201 Exemptions and reliefs in respect of tax under section 123

Summary

This section provides that in certain circumstances all or part of a payment to which section 123 (payments on retirement or removal from office or employment) applies is exempt from income tax. Schedule 3 also provides certain relief from the charge to tax under section 123 which relief is supplementary to the reliefs provided by this section. The section also provides an exemption of up to €5000 of the cost of retraining, subject to conditions, where the retraining is provided as part of a redundancy package.

Details

Definitions

“the basic exemption” is €10,160 plus €765 for each complete year of service of the person in the office or employment in respect of which the payment is made up to the relevant date. (1)(a)

“foreign service” is service in an office or employment —

- where tax was not charged in respect of the emoluments of that office or employment,
- within the charge to tax under Schedule E, but where tax was not fully chargeable in respect of the emoluments of that office or employment, or
- within the charge to tax under Case III of Schedule D, but where tax was not computed on the full amount of income arising in the year of assessment in accordance with section 71(1).

“the relevant date” is the date of the termination of the employment or the change in the conditions of employment in respect of which the payment is made.

In relation to a company, “control” is the power of a person to secure — (1)(b)

- through the holding of shares or voting rights in the company or any other company, or
- by virtue of any power conferred by the articles of association or any other document regulating the company or any other company, that the company’s affairs are conducted in accordance with the wishes of that person.

In the case of a partnership, “control” is the right to a share of more than 50 per cent of the assets, or of more than 50 per cent of the income, of the partnership.

Associated persons

For the purposes of this section and Schedule 3, employers making payments to which section 123 applies are associated if, on the date the payment is made, one of those employers is under the control of the other or both are under the control of a third person. (1)(c)

Cost of Retraining

“eligible employee” is a person who has more than 2 years continuous full time service or is deemed for the purposes of the redundancy acts to have 2 years continuous service. (1A)(a)

“retraining” is a training course made available as part of a redundancy package, which is designed to improve knowledge or skills to be used in obtaining gainful employment or in starting a business. The course must be completed within 6 months of the employee being made redundant.

“redundancy package” is any scheme of compensation offered to an eligible employee when he ceases his employment.

The first €5,000, of the cost of retraining an eligible employee, is exempt from tax where, as part of a redundancy package, an employer makes retraining available to all eligible employees. (1A)(b)

The exemption is not available on the cost of training a spouse, civil partner or dependant of an employer. (1A)(c)

The exemption is not available if an employee receives the cash or money’s worth in lieu of the employer providing the retraining. (1A)(d)

Exemption

Excluded from the charge to tax under section 123 are payments —

- of an amount not exceeding €200,000 - (2)(a)(i)
 - arising on the termination of an office or employment by the death of the holder, or
 - made on account of the injury or disability of the holder (“disability” is to be taken as meaning a specified physical disability or mental disorder as distinct from a decline of powers due to advanced age),
- in respect of restrictive covenants (chargeable under section 127), (2)(a)(ii)
- made under any retirement benefits scheme where the employee has been charged to tax under section 777 in respect of the payment, and (2)(a)(iii)
- made under a Revenue approved pension scheme or a statutory scheme or under a scheme set up by a foreign government for the benefit of its employees. (2)(a)(iv)

Where subparagraph (2)(a)(i) applies to any payment, or part of a payment, the other exemption provisions of this section and Schedule 3, including any deduction for Standard Capital Superannuation Benefit, shall not apply. A specific provision allowing for the making of a retraining payment, as provided for in subsection (1A), is included. (2)(b)

The €200,000 limit referred to in subparagraph (2)(a)(i) shall be reduced by the amount of the aggregate of all previously exempted payments, and any exempt payments made at the same time, to which that subparagraph applies. (2)(c)(i)

Where two or more payments are made in respect of the same person, or in respect of the same office, or in respect of different office or employments, for the purposes of determining whether the limit set out in subparagraph (2)(a)(i) has been exceeded, the aggregate of all such payments will be treated as if it was a single payment. (2)(c)(ii)

Reporting of exempt lump sums

It is obligatory to report to the Revenue Commissioners, within 46 days of the end of the tax year, details of the lump sum payments, in that year and treated as exempt by reference to subsection (2)(a), that is, payments, or parts of such payments, made on the termination of an employment by the death of the employee or made on account of injury or disability of the employee. The particulars to be furnished are — (2A)

- the name and address of the person to whom the payment was made,
- that person’s personal public service number (PPS No.),
- the amount of the payment made, and
- the basis on which the payment, or part of the payment, is not chargeable to tax under section 123, and, where the payment is on account of injury or disability, the extent of the injury or disability, as the case may be.

Exceptions to the full exemption

Certain payments made to former Members of the Oireachtas and public servants are not eligible for the full exemption provided in subsection (2)(a)(iv). Instead, such payments qualify for the other exemptions provided for in this section and in Schedule 3. The payments in question are — (3)

- a termination allowance payable to a former member of the Oireachtas,
- a severance allowance payable to former Ministers or a special allowance payable to former Taoisigh,
- special severance gratuities payable under section 7 of the Superannuation and Pensions Act 1963 or other analogous statutory payments,

- any benefit paid in pursuance of a statutory retirement benefits scheme, other than normal retirement benefits, which are payable to an individual in circumstances of —
 - redundancy or abolition of office, or
 - for facilitating improvements in the organisation of the employer.

For this purpose “normal retirement benefits” are recognised superannuation benefits customarily payable at normal retirement date under the relevant statutory scheme. Accordingly, normal retirement benefits may include benefits which are —

- payable earlier than the normal specified retirement date,
- calculated by reference to a period greater than actual service (for example, where an early retiree is granted added years), or
- described as short service gratuities which are calculated on a basis approved by the Minister for Finance.

Exemption for foreign service

This subsection excludes from the charge to tax on termination payments (under section 123) any payment in respect of an office or employment in which the holder’s service included a period of foreign service, and where that foreign service was —

- three quarters of the whole period of service,
- where the period of service up to the termination date exceeded 10 years, the whole of the last 10 years, or
- where the period of service up to the termination date exceeded 20 years, one-half of that period, including any 10 of the last 20 years.

The exemption for foreign service under subsection (4) ceased to have effect from 27 March 2013, the date of passing of the Finance Act 2013. (4A)

Basic exemption

A charge to tax under section 123 only arises where the amount of the payment exceeds the basis exemption limit (that is, €10,160 plus €765 for each complete year of service). (5)(a)

Where 2 or more payments are made to or in respect of the same person in respect of the same office or employment, or in respect of different offices or employments held under the same employer or under associated employers the payments must be aggregated and the basic exemption is applied as if the holder had received a single payment. Where such payments are treated as income of different years of assessments, the basic exemption is deducted from the payment treated as income of the earlier year. (5)(b)

Additional relief

A person may, within 4 years of the end of the year of assessment in which the payment is treated as income chargeable under section 123, make a claim in writing to have any relief provided in Schedule 3 applied to the payment. (6)

Supplementary

Payments chargeable to tax under section 123 are ignored where any provision of the Income Tax Acts requires income to be treated as the highest part of a person’s income. (7)

Restriction of relief

With effect from 1 January 2011 the amount of the chargeable lump sum in accordance with section 123 shall be restricted to the lesser of — (8)(a)

- (i) the taxable lump sum computed in accordance with the provisions of this section and Schedule 3, or
- (ii) €200,000.

The amount of €200,000 is reduced by any previous exempt payments which the individual may have received to which section 123 applied and also any deduction granted under paragraph 6 of Schedule 3. (b)

The limit of €200,000 is exclusive of payments made in accordance with subsection (1A) i.e. retraining payments up to €5,000 and subsection (2) i.e. payments made on account of the death of the employee or injury or disability of the holder of an office or employment. (c)

Where 2 or more payments are made to an individual in respect of the same office or employment, or in respect of different offices or employments, the aggregate amount of the tax-free lump sums shall be restricted to a lifetime limit of €200,000. (d)

202 Relief for agreed pay restructuring

Summary

This section exempts from income tax certain lump sum payments paid to employees under an agreed pay restructuring scheme. The exemption only applies where the employer company is faced with a substantial adverse change in its competitive environment and restructures its operations, by agreement with its work force, to ensure its survival – and has been certified as such by the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment (“the Minister) on the advice of the Labour Relations Commission (“the LRC”). The restructuring must involve pay reductions of at least 10 per cent of basic pay and must remain in place for at least 5 years. The maximum tax-free lump sum per employee is as follows:

Reduction in pay	Exemption	Maximum tax-free lump sum
At least 10% but not more than 15%	€7,620 plus €255 for each year of service up to a ceiling of 20 year’s service	€12,720
More than 15% but not more than 20%	€7,620 plus €635 for each year of service up to a ceiling of 20 year’s service	€20,320
More than 20%	€10,160 plus €765 for each year of service up to a ceiling of 20 year’s service	€25,460

Definitions

Some of the more important definitions are — (1)

“basic pay” is the employee’s emoluments (within the meaning of section 472) excluding benefits in kind but including overtime (this is the base for determining the required 10 per cent pay cut).

“qualifying company” is an employer company which is certified by the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment as a qualifying company.

“qualifying employee” is an employee in receipt of the PAYE tax credit provided for by section 472.

“relevant agreement” is a collective agreement (that is, an agreement between the employer and one or more trade unions representing the employees) involving more than 50 per cent of the total work force or more than 75 per cent of a particular category of the workforce (including a plant or a section) provided that at least 75 per cent of the workers in that category are party to the agreement. It must provide for lump sum compensation payments in return for pay reductions of at least 10 per cent (which must continue for at least 5 years). The agreement must be registered with the LRC.

“relevant date” is the date the agreement is registered with the LRC.

Certification

On the making of an application by a company, the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment may, in accordance with guidelines agreed to by the Minister for Finance, certify that the company may be treated as a qualifying company. The application must contain all relevant information concerning the company, its trade or business, and the terms of the proposed agreements as may be specified in the guidelines. (2)(a) & (c)

The Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment may not so certify an employer company unless satisfied, on the advise of the LRC, that — (2)(b)

- the company is confronted with a substantial adverse change in its competitive environment which will determine its current or continued viability,
- it is necessary to enter into a pay restructuring agreement with its qualifying employees to accommodate that change and maintain its viability, and
- the proposed agreement is for the sole purpose of rectifying the adverse change.

The certification may be subject to conditions and can be revoked if any of the conditions are not complied with. (2)(d) & (f)

Costs (for example, consultants’ fees) incurred by the LRC in advising the Minister on the competitive threat faced by the applicant company and the need for pay restructuring must be met by the company. (2)(e)

The relief is scheduled to end on 1 January, 2004 (that is, no certificate can issue after that date). (2)(g)

Monitoring

The pay restructuring agreement must be registered with the LRC, and the employer company must in each of the following 5 years confirm in writing to the LRC (within 1 month of each of the 5 anniversaries of the registration) that the terms of the agreement continue in force. (3)

National wage agreements and incremental scales

For the purpose of determining whether the percentage pay cut is maintained during the 5 year period, pay increases arising from Partnership 2000 or any similar agreement and incremental scale payments are ignored. (4)

Extent of the exemption

A lump sum payment to an employee by a qualifying company under a “relevant agreement” is exempt from any charge to income tax to the extent that it does not exceed an amount calculated as follows — (5)(b)

- where the reduction in pay is at least 10% but not more than 15% – €7,620 plus €255 for each year of service up to a ceiling of 20 year’s service,
- where the reduction in pay is more than 15% but not more than 20% – €7,620 plus €635 for each year of service up to a ceiling of 20 year’s service,
- where the reduction in pay exceeds 20% – €10,160 plus €765 for each year of service up to a ceiling of 20 year’s service.

Where more than one payment is made to an employee in respect of the same employment, or different employments within the same group of companies, the payments are aggregated. If multiple payments exceed the exemption threshold as set out, that threshold is deemed to be set — (5)(c)

- where the payments are made for different years, first against a payment received in an earlier year, and
- where the payments are made in the same year, against a payment received earlier in a year of assessment before a payment received later in that year.

Withdrawal of relief

Where the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment revokes a certificate, or the company fails to make an annual return to the LRC or an employee receives a pay increase apart from the permitted exceptions, the relief is to be withdrawn by making an assessment under Case IV of Schedule D for the year of assessment in which the relief was granted. (6)

Interaction with redundancy, etc payments

Where an employee receives a payment to which section 123 applies (for example, an ex-gratia redundancy payment) within 5 years of the registration of the pay restructuring agreement, any tax-free element of the “section 123” payment (as calculated under section 201 or Schedule 3) is reduced by the relief given under this section. (7)

The exemption in section 201 and the top-slicing relief in Schedule 3 do not apply to any payment within this section. (8)

203 Payments in respect of redundancy

207A Charities Regulatory Authority and Common Investment Fund

Summary

This section provides the Charities Regulatory Authority with exemption from tax in respect of the income of the Common Investment Fund, which was vested in the Authority when it was established on 16 October 2014, on the same basis as if the Authority had been granted charitable tax exemption under section 207.

On the establishment of the Authority, the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland were dissolved and, under the provisions of the Charities Act 2009, their functions were taken over by the Authority. As part of this process, the Authority assumed responsibility for the Commissioner’s Common Investment Fund.

The Commissioners had been granted tax exemption under section 207, which meant that the Fund income was not subject to tax in their hands. The Authority, however, is not in a position to apply for charitable tax exemption in its own right because, for example, it is not established for charitable purposes, as required by section 207.

Details

“Fund” means the Common Investment Fund which, prior to the dissolution of the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland (on the establishment of the Charities Regulatory Authority on 16 October 2014), was known as the “Commissioners Common Investment Fund”. This fund was established by the Commissioners in 1985 under section 46 of the Charities Act 1961 and vested in the Authority on its establishment. (1)

“relevant income” means the income of the Fund as defined.

The Charities Regulatory Authority is deemed to be a body which has claimed and been granted tax exemption under section 207 in respect of income arising in the Fund from 16 October 2014. (2)

208 Lands owned and occupied, and trades carried on, by charities

This section exempts from income tax certain income arising to charities. The sources of income to which the exemption applies are —

- income arising from lands, tenements or hereditaments which are owned and occupied by a charity and where the land, etc is occupied for the purposes of quarrying, mining, etc or of any of the other concerns set out in section 18(2), Case I(b) of Schedule D,
- trading profits, if the profits are applied solely for charitable purposes and either the trade is exercised in the course of the actual carrying out of the primary purpose of the charity or the work in connection with the trade is mainly carried on by beneficiaries of the charity. Where the trading profits arise from a trade of farming carried on by a charity, those profits need not be applied solely for charitable purposes.

A “charity” is any body of persons or trust established for charitable purposes only.

208A Overseas charities

Summary

This section, which applies from 1 January 2010, allows a charity established in any EEA or EFTA State or in the United Kingdom to apply to the Revenue Commissioners for a determination that it would qualify for the tax exemptions provided for by section 207 or 208, if it were to have income in the State of a kind referred to in those sections. Essentially this is rental and other investment income, for example, interest and dividends, and trading profits. Where the Revenue Commissioners are satisfied that either of these exemptions would apply in those circumstances, they will issue a notice of determination to the charity to that effect.

The receipt of a notice will, in turn, permit the charity, after a period of 2 years, to seek an authorisation under Part 3 of Schedule 26A for the purposes of accessing the donations relief scheme under section 848A. This 2-year waiting period already applies to domestic charities that have an exemption under section 207. Therefore, the treatment of domestic and overseas charities are the same in that regard.

216A Rent-a-room relief

Summary

This section affords relief from income tax for gross receipts of up to €14,000 per annum, from the letting by an individual of a room or rooms in the individual's sole or main residence. The relief is not due in certain circumstances including, for example, where the sums received are from a child to a parent or are from an employer to an employee. The granting of relief under the section does not affect the individual's entitlement to mortgage interest relief or capital gains tax exemption on the disposal of that residence.

Details

Definitions

“qualifying residence” is a residential premises located in the State which is occupied by an individual as his or her sole or main residence during the year of assessment concerned;

“relevant sums” are sums received by an individual in respect of his or her qualifying residence for the use of a room or rooms in the residence as living accommodation and include sums received for meals, cleaning, laundry and similar goods and services which are incidentally provided in connection with that use;

“residential premises” means a building or part of a building used as a dwelling.

The relief

Where, in a year of assessment, an individual is chargeable to tax under Case IV or Case V of Schedule D in respect of relevant sums, regardless of whether the sums are derived from one or more sources, and the total amount of those sums does not exceed €14,000, then the profits/gains or losses of that year of assessment arising from those relevant sums are treated as being nil.

The total relevant sum is a gross figure, i.e., no account is taken of any expenses incurred in generating the relevant sums. Any capital allowances which could have been granted under section 284 are deemed to have been granted. In other words, there is a notional writing down of capital expenditure on furniture, etc., in respect of which wear and tear allowance would, but for this relief, have been granted.

Opting out of relief

An individual can make an election to opt out of this relief for a year of assessment. Such an election must be made on or before the return filing date for the year of assessment concerned.

Non-application of relief

“Rent-a-room” relief will not apply in circumstances where the relevant sums received in respect of accommodation provided in the family home are from a child to his/her parent, or from a child to the civil partner of his/her parent.

Relief will not apply to payments received either directly or indirectly by an individual, or by a person connected with the individual, in respect of accommodation provided in the family home where that individual is an office holder or employee of the person making the payment or of a person connected with the payer.

For the year of assessment 2019 and subsequent years, relief will not apply to that part of the relevant sums arising to an individual in respect of the use by a person of accommodation for a period which does not exceed 28 consecutive days;

except where the person using the accommodation—

- (i) is a person who is resident or ordinarily resident in the State and is incapacitated due to mental or physical infirmity (a “relevant person”),

(ii) uses the room or rooms for a minimum of 4 consecutive days per week for not less than 4 consecutive weeks, or

(iii) is receiving full-time or part-time instruction at a university, college, school or other educational establishment in the State. (3B)

The person claiming that the exception applies may be required to provide supporting proof to the Revenue Commissioners. (3C)

Tax returns

This section does not affect the obligation to make a return.

Limit

The threshold for the rent-a-room scheme is €14,000.

Apportionment

Where more than one individual is entitled to the relevant sums concerned, the €14,000 limit is divided equally between them.

Entitlement to other relief or exemption

The granting of relief under the section does not affect the individual’s entitlement to mortgage interest relief nor capital gains tax exemption on the disposal of that residence.

in respect of relevant sums.

Where relevant sums arise to an individual and an election under subsection (3)(a) has been made, then any claim for capital allowances which could have been made shall be deemed to have been made and granted. (2)(d)

The exemption applies where an individual so elects on or before the return date for the (3) year of assessment and the election only applies for that year of assessment. The individual must also show the Revenue Commissioners evidence that they (the individual) have notified the person, recognised by the Health Service Executive for the purposes of such notification, that childcare services are being, will be or have been provided in that year of assessment.

Even though the income in question is exempt from tax, details must be included in the annual tax return. (4)

The abolition of the exemption applies to payments made on or after 1 January 2011.

222 Certain dividends from a non-resident subsidiary

Summary

The section exempts from corporation tax certain dividends received by an Irish resident company from a non-resident subsidiary. The exemption only applies where the proceeds of such dividends are applied for the purposes of an “approved investment plan” which is directed towards the creation and maintenance of employment in the State.

To claim the relief, a company must submit an “investment plan” to the Minister for Finance showing how it proposes to apply the proceeds of a specified amount of dividends received from a foreign subsidiary. Where the Minister is satisfied that the plan is directed towards the creation or maintenance of employment in trading activities which is or will be carried on in the State, he/she may issue a certificate indicating a specified amount of the dividends which qualify for exemption. Such a certificate must be given before 15 February 2001. The qualifying dividends must be applied for the purposes of an approved investment plan within a specified 3 year time period. The amount qualifying for exemption can be reduced where the full amount of the dividends are not spent on the approved investment plan.

No particular category of investment or employment is specified. An investment in any type of trading activities may qualify provided the activities are carried on in the State. The investment may be made by the company in activities it directly carries on or may be made indirectly by, for example, subscription for shares in another company which would then make the investment.

The nature of the employment is not specified beyond that it must be in Ireland. The employment may be either new jobs in a new or expanding business or existing jobs in a business which, but for the investment, would probably close down or shed jobs. There is no specification as to the number involved.

Details

Definitions

“approved investment plan” is an investment plan in respect of which the Minister for Finance has given a certificate in accordance with subsection (2). (1)

“investment plan” is a plan of a company resident in the State directed towards the creation or maintenance of employment in the State in trading operations carried on or to be carried on in the State. The plan may be submitted in advance of implementation or after implementation where the Minister for Finance is satisfied that there was reasonable cause for the delay in submitting the plan. The plan must, in any case, be submitted within one year of its implementation.

“relevant dividends” are dividends received by an Irish resident company from a foreign subsidiary of that company which may qualify for relief under the section. They must be dividends —

- specified in a certificate given by the Minister before 15 February, 2001, and

- applied for the purposes of an approved investment plan in a period beginning one year before and ending 2 years after the dividends are received in the State.

The Revenue Commissioners have the power to specify an extension of this period either backwards or forwards or both backwards and forwards.

“a foreign subsidiary” is a company resident in a country with which Ireland has a double taxation treaty, which is a 51 per cent subsidiary of the claimant company.

Certification

Where an investment plan has been submitted to the Minister by a claimant company, the Minister may give a certificate specifying the amount of dividends which may qualify for relief under the section. Before issuing such a certificate the Minister must be satisfied that the proceeds of the dividends will be applied towards the creation or maintenance of employment in trading activities carried on, or to be carried on, in the State. (2)

Exemption

Subject to subsection (4), where a company claims and proves that it has received in an accounting period an amount of relevant dividends, its income for the purposes of corporation tax will not include any amount in respect of those dividends. (3)

Where all or part of the dividends specified in a certificate have not been applied within the required period for the purposes of the related “approved investment plan”, the Minister may, by notice in writing, reduce the amount of dividends specified in the certificate. Where relief has been granted in respect of the relevant dividends specified in the certificate before the reduction, the inspector may make such assessments as are necessary to recover the relief given in respect of the amount of the reduction. Where relief has not yet been claimed, relief will only be granted in respect of the amount as so reduced. (4)

Claims

A claim for relief under this section must be made in writing to the inspector together with the company’s tax return for the accounting period in which the relevant dividends are received in the State. (5)

227 Certain income arising to specified non-commercial state-sponsored bodies

This section exempt from income tax or corporation tax certain income arising to non-commercial state-sponsored bodies (being a body specified in Schedule 4) which would otherwise be chargeable to tax under Cases III, IV and V of Schedule D. However, such bodies remain liable for deposit interest retention tax under Chapter 4 of Part 8. (1) & (4)

The Minister for Finance may make an order amending Schedule 4. This could arise following a decision to remove the exemption from a body or where it was decided to grant exemption to a new body. (2)

Any order amending Schedule 4 must be laid before Dáil Éireann and be passed by Resolution. (3)

Any tax paid by such bodies before the introduction of the exemption is not refundable. In addition, such bodies are not entitled to exemption from deposit interest retention tax nor are they entitled to claim repayment of that tax. (4)

228 Income arising to designated bodies under the Securitisation (Proceeds of Certain Mortgages) Act, 1995

This section exempts from income tax and corporation tax the income arising to a body designated under section 4 of the Securitisation (Proceeds of Certain Mortgages) Act, 1995.

229 Harbour authorities and port companies

Summary

This section provides that port companies and other companies controlling harbours are exempt from corporation tax for the period 1 January 1997 to 31 December 1998 in respect of their income derived from the normal provision of harbour facilities. From 31 December, 1998 corporation tax will be chargeable on those companies in respect of such income on a phased basis. The phasing arrangements involve a 2/3rds reduction in taxable income in the year 1999, and a 1/3rd reduction in the year 2000; the income is fully taxable thereafter. Harbour authorities which are not companies are exempt from tax in respect of income derived from the provision of harbour facilities.

Details

Definitions

A “relevant body” is — (1)

- a harbour authority under the Harbours Act, 1946,
- all companies established under the section 7 of the Harbours Act, 1996, and
- other companies which control harbours and which carry on a trade of the type carried on by such harbour authorities and such port companies.

“relevant profits or gains” is profits/gains of a relevant body derived from the provision of normal harbour facilities for vessels, goods and passengers. Thus, income and gains from other activities are outside the scope of the exemption.

Exemption

Exemption from tax under Schedule D in respect of relevant profits is granted, for the (2) & (3) years 1997 and 1998, to all harbour authorities, port companies and other companies controlling harbours. This exemption is extended indefinitely for all harbour authorities (within the meaning of the Harbours Act, 1946).

Transitional arrangements

With effect from 1 January, 1999, port companies chargeable to corporation tax under Schedule D in respect of relevant profits are taxable on a phased basis. The phasing in arrangements involve a 2/3rd reduction in those profits in the year 1999 and a 1/3rd reduction in the year 2000, with all port companies being fully taxable thereafter. Harbour authorities which are not port companies remain exempt from tax in respect of such profits – see subsection (3). (4)

231 Profits or gains from stallion fees

Summary

This section provides that certain profits/gains arising to an owner or part owner of a stallion from the sale of services of mares within the State by the stallion, or from the sale of rights to such services (that is, stud fees or receipts from the sale of nominations) are exempt from income and corporation tax.

However, for chargeable periods commencing on or after 1 January 2004 details of all such profits, gains and losses must be included in the annual return of income to the Revenue Commissioners. The normal rules relating to the keeping of records and the making available of those records for inspection by the Revenue also apply. This relief ends on 31 July 2008.

Details

The exemption from income or corporation tax applies to profits/gains arising to — (1)

- the owner of a stallion which is ordinarily kept on lands in the State from the sale of services of mares within the State by the stallion,

- the part-owner of a stallion which is ordinarily kept on land outside the State from the sale of services of mares by the stallion or from the sale of the rights to such services, where the part-owner carries on a trade in the State which consists of or includes bloodstock breeding and where the part-ownership of the stallion was acquired and is held primarily for the purpose of the service of mares owned or partly owned by the part owner of the stallion in the course of that trade.

The provisions of the Tax Acts relating to the making of a return (section 951) by a chargeable person (section 959A) apply — (2)

- as if section 231(1) had not been enacted,
- as if a person who is in receipt of income for a chargeable period (section 321(2)) from this source were a chargeable person,
- as if any person who may have had a notice issued to them under section 951(6) (exemption from need to submit a return) had not been issued such a notice, and
- so as to oblige persons in receipt of income from stallion fees to keep records as if the income was chargeable to tax.

Profits, gains and losses are to be computed in accordance with the Tax Acts, ignoring subsection (1) (the provision giving exemption from tax). (3)(a)

Where a loss is made, then the amount of that loss is to be included in the return. (3)(b)

The exemption from tax, provided for in this section, does not apply to income earned after 31 July 2008. (4)

232 Profits from occupation of certain woodlands

Summary

This section provides that profits/gains from the commercial occupation of woodlands in the State are exempt from income tax and corporation tax.

However, for chargeable periods commencing on or after 1 January 2004 details of all such profits, gains and losses must be included in the annual return of income to the Revenue Commissioners. - as if a person who is in receipt of income for a chargeable period (section 321(2)) from this source were a chargeable person,
- as if any person who may have had a notice issued to them under section 959N (exemption from need to submit a return) had not been issued such a notice, and

- so as to oblige persons in receipt of income from the occupation of woodlands to keep records as if the income was chargeable to tax.

Profits, gains and losses are to be computed in accordance with the Tax Acts, ignoring subsection (2) (the provision giving exemption from tax). (4)(a)

Where a loss is made, then the amount of that loss is to be included in the return. (4)(b)

233 Stud greyhound service fees

Summary

This section provides that certain profits/gains arising to an owner or part owner of a stud greyhound from the sale of services of greyhound bitches within the State by the stud greyhound or from the sale of rights to such services (that is, stud fees or receipts from the sale of nominations) are exempt from income tax or corporation tax.

However, for chargeable periods commencing on or after 1 January 2004 details of all such profits, gains and losses must be included in the annual return of income to the Revenue Commissioners. The normal rules relating to the keeping of records and the making available of those records for inspection by the Revenue also apply. This relief ends on 31 July 2008.

Details

The provisions of the Tax Acts relating to the making of a return (section 951) by a chargeable person (section 959A) will apply — (3)

234 Certain income derived from patent royalties

Summary

This section provided that prior to the Finance Act 2011 certain income derived from patent royalties was exempt from tax and was not, subject to an annual limit, to be taken into account for any purposes of the Tax Acts. The exemption was, however, abolished under the provisions of the Finance Act 2011 so that it will not apply to income from a qualifying patent which is paid to a person on or after 24 November 2010.

Details

Definitions

“a qualifying patent” is a patent where the work which gives rise to the invention which is patented is carried out in an EEA state. Prior to the Finance Act 2007, a “qualifying patent” was a patent in relation to which the research, planning, processing, experimenting, testing, devising, development or other similar activity leading to the invention which is the subject of the patent was carried out in the State. The extension to EEA states rather than just in the State, applies as respects income from a patent in relation to which the research, planning, processing, experimenting, testing, devising, development or other similar activity leading to the invention which is the subject of the patent is carried out on or after 1 January 2008. (1)

“EEA state” means a state which is a Contracting Party to the EEA Agreement.

“EEA Agreement” means an agreement of the EEA signed at Oporto in 1992 as adjusted by the Protocol signed at Brussels in 1993.

“income from a qualifying patent” is any royalty paid in respect of the user of the invention to which the qualifying patent relates and includes any sum paid for the grant of a licence to exercise rights under the patent. The royalty must be paid for the purposes of activities which —

- are regarded as activities within the 10 per cent scheme of corporation tax provided for by Part 14, other than international financial services carried on from the International Financial Services Centre and Shannon Zone services activities (it is to be noted that the repair or maintenance of aircraft in the Shannon Zone is not excluded), or
- would be eligible manufacturing activities for the purposes of Part 14 even though they are carried on by an unincorporated enterprise or are carried on outside the State.

However, as respects royalties paid after 23 April, 1996, only so much of a royalty paid to the holder of a patent by a connected manufacturing company as does not exceed an amount which would be paid between persons acting at arm’s length is treated as income from a qualifying royalty.

Also treated as income from a qualifying patent are royalties paid —

- for the purpose of non-manufacturing activities where the payer is not connected (“connected” here means connected for the purposes of the Capital Gains Tax Acts – see section 10) with the beneficial recipient of the royalty, and
- where no arrangements exist which have as a main purpose the satisfying of the condition that the royalty or other sum must be received from a unconnected person. In other words if third parties are brought into the payment stream in order to achieve exemption of royalties, the royalties are not exempt.

“resident of the State” is any person resident in the State for tax purposes and not resident elsewhere.

A company is resident in the State if it is controlled and managed in the State.

See also further definitions relevant to subsection (3A) below.

Exemption

An Irish resident individual or company on making a claim on the appropriate form is entitled to have any income accruing from a qualifying patent disregarded for the purposes of the Income Tax Acts or Corporation Tax Acts, as appropriate. Applicants claiming exemption must, however, make the appropriate tax returns. (2)

An individual in receipt of income from a qualifying patent is not entitled to have that income treated as exempt income unless the individual carried out, either solely or jointly with another person, the research, planning, processing, experimenting, testing, devising, development or other similar activity leading to the invention which is the subject of the qualifying patent. (3)

The aggregate amount of income from qualifying patents of a person (company or individual) to be disregarded for income tax or corporation tax cannot exceed €5m in the “relevant period” as defined in paragraph (e) below. (3A), (a), (e)

Where a person or persons are connected (within the meaning of section 10) with a company which would otherwise have the income disregarded under subsection (2), the limit of €5m will apply to the aggregate of the amounts of income arising to such persons. (b)

The €5m limit can be allocated between the above persons where the aggregate exceeds that amount.

The persons can make a joint election as to the allocation of the €5m in writing to the appropriate inspector, by the return filing date, of the latest chargeable period (within the meaning of section 321(2)) of the company or any of the persons which falls wholly or partly into the 12 month relevant period. Where no election notice of allocation is given, the amount of the €5m allocated to the company or person is then determined by applying a formula to allow an amount in proportion to the aggregate of the amounts of income from qualifying patents to the company or person over the aggregate of amounts arising to all of the connected persons. (c)

Where the accounting period of a company does not coincide with the 12-month relevant period (as defined), the amount of income from qualifying patents arising to the company in the 12-month period is the aggregate of such amounts in the whole or part of an accounting period falling within the relevant period. There is a time apportionment of the income from qualifying patents in the accounting period according to their respective lengths. The amount of income to be disregarded is to be given in the earlier accounting period, or part of that accounting period. (d)

Two definitions are included within subsection (3A): (e)

“income from qualifying patents” means income from one or more than one qualifying patent.

“relevant period” means the period of 12 months commencing on 1 January 2008 and each subsequent period of 12 months (i.e. a calendar 12 month period).

Where under section 77 of the Patents Act, 1992 or any corresponding provision of any other country, an invention which is the subject of a qualifying patent is used for the service of the State or of the government of the country concerned, this section applies as if that use had taken place under a licence and any sums paid in respect of the licence were income from a qualifying patent. (4)

Section 77 of the Patents Act, 1992, allows the State to make use of any patented invention for the service of the State on payment of compensation to the patentee. In such a case there may be no formal document corresponding to the licence referred to in the definition of “income from a qualifying patent”. This subsection brings any such compensation within this definition and, accordingly, extends the exemption to the compensation.

Miscellaneous

Once a person establishes a Case III of Schedule D source of income, that source of income does not cease by virtue of the fact that that source represents income qualifying for relief under this section. (5)

The Revenue Commissioners may, in determining the amount of income to be disregarded under this section, make such apportionment of receipts and expenses as may be necessary. (6)

Relief under this section may be given by repayment or otherwise. (7)

Persons in receipt of disregarded income are obliged to show the amount of such income in their tax returns. (8)

Abolition of exemption

This section shall not apply to income from a qualifying patent which is paid to a person on or after 24 November 2010. (9)

235 Bodies established for the promotion of athletic or amateur games or sports

Summary

This section exempts from income tax and corporation tax the income of certain bodies established for the sole purpose of the promotion of athletic or amateur games or sports where it can be shown to the satisfaction of the Revenue Commissioners that such income is applied solely for those purposes.

Details

Definitions

“approved body of persons” is any body of persons whose sole purpose is promoting athletic or amateur games or sport, and includes any body of persons that previously enjoyed exemption from income tax under section 349 of the Income Tax Act, 1967 for the year 1983–84 or earlier years or, in the case of companies, exemption from corporation tax under that section, as applied by section 11(6) of the Corporation Tax (1)

Act, 1976, for accounting periods ending before 6 April, 1984.

However, not included is any body to which the Revenue Commissioners gives notice in writing stating that they are satisfied that the body —

- was not established solely for the purpose of promoting athletic or amateur games or sports,
- was established wholly or partly for the purpose of securing a tax advantage, or
- having being established for the sole purpose of promoting athletic or amateur games or sports, no longer exists for that purpose or begins to exist wholly or partly for the purpose of securing a tax advantage.

Before the issue of such a notice, the Revenue Commissioners may consult with any person or body of persons that may be of assistance to them in deciding whether such a notice should issue.

Exemption

Exemption from income tax or corporation tax is granted in respect of so much of the income of any approved body of persons that can be shown to be income which has been or will be applied solely for the purpose of the promotion of athletic or amateur games or sports. (2)

Withdrawal of exemption

The Revenue Commissioners may by notice withdraw the exemption granted to any body of persons under this section. (3)

If the notice is one issued under paragraph (I) of subsection (1), the exemption granted to the body of persons ceases to have effect, as respect income tax, for the later of the year of assessment in which the body was established and the year 1984–85, and for all subsequent years of assessment and, as respect corporation tax, for the first accounting period of the body which starts after 6 April, 1984 and for all subsequent accounting periods.

If the notice is one issued under paragraph (II) of subsection (1), the exemption granted to the body of persons ceases to have effect, as respect income tax, for the earlier of the year of assessment in which, in the opinion of the Revenue Commissioners, the body ceased to exist for the sole purpose of promoting athletic or amateur games or sports and the year in which it commenced to exist wholly or partly for the purpose of securing a tax advantage, and for all subsequent years of assessment. The withdrawal of exemption does not apply to a year ended before 6 April, 1985. As respects corporation tax, the exemption ceases to have effect for the earlier of the accounting period in which, in the opinion of the Revenue Commissioners, the body ceased to exist for the sole purpose of promoting athletic or amateur games or sports and the accounting period in which it commenced to exist wholly or partly for the purpose of securing a tax advantage, and for all subsequent accounting periods. The withdrawal of exemption does not apply to an accounting period ended before 6 April, 1984.

Appeals

A body of persons aggrieved by a notice issued by the Revenue Commissioners under subsection (1) may appeal that notice to the Appeal Commissioners. An appeal is made by notice in writing within the period of 30 days after the date of the notice issued under subsection (1). The Appeal Commissioners will hear and determine an appeal in the manner provided for in Part 40A. (4)

Delegation of functions and powers

The Revenue Commissioners may authorise any of their officers to perform any functions or exercise any powers imposed or conferred on the Commissioners by this section. (5)

236 Loan of certain art objects

Summary

This section exempts, subject to conditions, certain benefits provided to an individual by his/her employer from the benefit-in-kind income tax charge under section 118 and from the charge to tax in respect of distributions to participators under section 436. The benefit must consist of the loan to the individual of a work of art or a scientific collection beneficially owned by the company in which the individual is an employee or director and which is available for viewing by the public. The exemption ceases to have effect for the year of assessment 2010 and subsequent years of assessment.

Details

Definitions

“art object” is an object which satisfies the requirements set out in subsection (2). (1)

“authorised person” is an officer the Revenue Commissioners authorised by them in writing for the purposes of the section or a person authorised by the Minister in writing for those purposes.

“the Minister” is the Minister for Arts, Heritage, Gaeltacht and the Islands (now Arts, Sport and Tourism).

“relevant building” is a building approved of for the purposes of section 482.

“relevant garden” is a garden approved of for the purposes of section 482.

An “art object” means any work of art (including a picture, sculpture, print, book, manuscript, piece of jewellery, furniture or other similar object) or a scientific collection which on application to them in that behalf by a person who owns or occupies a relevant building or relevant garden is determined — (2)(a) & (b)

- by the Minister to be an object which is intrinsically of significant national, scientific, historical or aesthetic interest, and
- by the Revenue Commissioners to be an object to which reasonable access and reasonable facilities for viewing are afforded to the public.

In arriving at the determination the Minister may consult with whoever he/she considers necessary.

The requirements for “reasonable access” and “reasonable facilities for viewing” must be complied with before the exemption will be granted. Broadly, the art object must be on view and accessible in a house or garden approved for the purposes of the reliefs for expenditure on significant buildings or gardens (section 482) for 4 hours a day, 60 days a year (of which 40 days must be between 1 May and 30 September), on the same days and at the same times as access is afforded to the building or garden in which the object is kept, and the admission fee, if any, must be reasonable.

Revocation of determination

The Revenue Commissioners may, where necessary, revoke from such date as they consider appropriate their determination that reasonable access to and reasonable (2)(c) facilities for viewing are afforded to the public. In such cases the exemption ceases to apply for the year of assessment in which the effective date of revocation occurs.

Exemption

The relief takes the form of an exemption from the benefit-in-kind income tax charge under section 118 and the charge to tax in respect of distributions to participators under section 436, where — (3)

- a body corporate incurs expense solely in, or solely in connection with, or is deemed to incur expense in connection with, the provision to an individual (being an employee or director of the company) of a benefit or facility which consists of the loan by the body corporate to the individual of an art object beneficially owned by the body corporate, and
- the art object is kept in a relevant building or relevant garden owned or occupied by the individual.

Authorised person

An authorised person may, at any reasonable time, enter a building or garden in which an art object is kept in order to inspect the art object. An authorised person is obliged on request to produce his/her authorisation. Anyone obstructing or interfering with an authorised person is liable to a fine of up to €630. (4)

Claims

All applications and claims under this section must be made on the prescribed form. In the case of a claim under subsection (3) for relief from the benefit-in-kind charge, the claim must be accompanied by such statements, including statements in relation to the expense incurred by the body corporate, as are required by the prescribed form. (5)

Capital gains tax

The exemption (section 606) for capital gains tax in respect of certain objects loaned for display in museums, etc does not apply to an object which is an art object within the meaning of this section. (6)

Cesser of exemption

The exemption ceases to have effect for the year of assessment 2010 and subsequent years of assessment. (7)
